

Happy Holidays!

To all Members & Affiliates:

We wish you and your family the healthiest and happiest Holiday.

To support our diligent staff and volunteers the WOW management team confirms that the office will remain closed through the holiday season to reopen on January 3, 2023.

The Wow Corporate starter loan program has been cleared to use the infrastructure system developed to support our registered Lender which was completed weeks ago and now our operations can capably support the volume of applicants under current membership. We have been informed that for fiscal year purposes the Trust funds release to the registered lender will take place into the first weeks of January 2023. We expect to rollout the internal test rounds and shortly thereafter to exponentially increase our closing volume into the first quarter of 2023.

Our refund policies from August 2022 remain open to all members concerned over the loan closing delays, and all active refund processing times are expected to speed up dramatically after the Holiday session. We have also deployed a registration process for all member files missing a WOW ID#, so our processors can complete the registration for better access to each of those members.

The recent delay in update communication was intentional as we sought out the key Trust update and Lender integration to be sure our direction was confirmed before reporting officially. Communication is the key to successful operations, and it remains our commitment for all members to receive the highest level of service which will ensure long-term success for WOW.

Thank you for your patience, support and understanding.
